Should a proxy grant the power of attorney, CDCP assumes the proxy has right to grant the power of attorney to other persons. CDCP shall not be liable for damage potentially occurring based on illegally granted power of attorney by the proxy.

- 2.14 In addition, the power of attorney or delegation may include the following about the mandator and/or representative in addition to information according to section 2.13 of this article:
- a) in case of a natural person who identifies with an ID card, passport or residency permit - full name, birth number or date of birth if not assigned, residential address, wherein if the representative identified with passport or residency permit and birth number is assigned, the text of the power of attorney must contain the birth number; if ID card is used for identification, date of birth is enough to be specified in the text of the power of attorney,

Exceptionally, CDCP may accept power of attorney which does not include all essentials according to this provision in reasoned case depending on type of requested service, provided the requesting person and the person acting on behalf of the requesting person were duly identified and verified and, at the same time, there are no doubts that concerning relevant service the authorised person is entitled to act on behalf of the person requesting the service.

In case documents signed by the authorised person or a mandatory on behalf of a client are attached to a request for service, and CDCP at the same time does not require that such documents include officially verified signature, CDCP may accept also a power of attorney, or authorisation, for signing the documents on behalf of the client not compliant with all requirements pursuant to this provision.

- 2.15 CDCP shall have right to refuse a request for service provided that data about the legal entity and its statutory representatives in the power of attorney or delegation differ from those in an ID card or abstract from the commercial register.
- 2.16 Validity of the power of attorney or delegation presented or submitted to CDCP expires upon date defined therein, revocation, or making a legal act for which it was issued, unless stipulated otherwise therein. Validity of the power of attorney or delegation also expires upon death or extinction of the client, or in case of delegation upon termination of employment of the authorized person with an employee that granted the same. In case

- of expiration of the power of attorney or delegation the fact is effective with respect to CDCP upon giving a proof thereof depending on reason for termination thereof.
- 2.17 Should a natural person act based on a delegation validity of which expires upon termination of employment, the issuer of the delegation shall inform well in advance CDCP in writing about termination of validity of said delegation for that person, otherwise CDCP shall not be liable for damage incurred due to breach of obligations in the sense of this provision.
- 2.18 The following shall apply for procedure and how revocation of the power of attorney or delegation presented or submitted with respect to proceedings before CDCP:
- a) the revocation must be made in writing, wherein signing is governed by section 2.13 of this article, but the signatures of the authorized persons may not be authenticated,
 - b) the revocation must identify persons acting on behalf of the legal entity, if the one revokes the power of attorney or delegation,
 - c) wording of the revocation must clearly indicate that the power of attorney or delegation is revoked,
 - d) if the revocation does not specify what power of attorney or delegation is being revoked, CDCP assumes that all power of attorneys or delegations granted before delivery of the revocation are revoked,
 - e) revocation of the power of attorney or delegation with respect to CDCP shall be effective upon presentation or submission of the revocation to the CDCP operation point or CDCP mail room; the decisive for acting by CDCP based on the revocation is the date of taking over or delivery of the revocation at the CDCP operation point or CDCP mail room,
 - f) CDCP shall not be liable for damage due to incomplete, incorrect, or otherwise defective revocation of the power of attorney or delegation, or late presentation or submission to CDCP,
 - g) provisions according to the Part VII of the Rules of Operation apply to revocation submitted via the CDCP Portal as regards the filing form and method of submission.
- 2.19 For the purposes of provision of the services, should the client be declared bankrupt, the representative authorized based on the power of attorney granted by the statutory body of the client-bankrupt shall not be authorized to act in conformity with the bankruptcy proceedings. CDCP does not accept the power of attorney, and no service shall be granted to the authorized representative.
- 2.20 Should date of client's signature on the presented documents be older than the one giving a proof that the person is authorized to sign the document or act before CDCP, the applicant for service shall provide documents to give a proof of authorization of the client's signature on the presented document (e.g. signature on a pledge contract). In justified cases CDCP may decide that the condition in the previous sentence shall not apply.
- 2.21 All documents required by CDCP according to this article should be presented as originals or authenticated copies, unless the Rules of Operation stipulate otherwise. CDCP can require that additional information and documents are presented in different form.
- 2.22 Based on its own discretion, CDCP may reasonably verify and review the sufficiency and credibility of the presented or submitted documents according to the Rules of Operation, and the client shall cooperate to this end.
- 2.23 Should the documents be issued or signatures thereon authenticated in a territory outside the Slovak Republic, CDCP shall have right to demand a higher authentication of the documents or signature authentication (super-authentication) or certification (apostille) in conformity with Convention of 5 October 1961 Abolishing the Requirement of Legalisation for Foreign Public Documents, and legal translation of the documents into Slovak (with the exception of documents in Czech). Authentication of signatures and verification of the documents made abroad should have higher authentication (super-authentication), unless legal assistance treaty concluded between the Slovak Republic and other country or other regulations stipulate otherwise, or if the country of documentation origin is not listed among the signatories of the Convention of 5 October 1961 Abolishing the Requirement of Legalisation for Foreign Public Documents; also in this case CDCP shall have right to ask for the super-authentication.

- 2.24 In relevant cases the client shall inform CDCP without undue delay about any changes to data and documents submitted or presented to CDCP, provided that the change is important for provision of the CDCP services or delivery of documents, and submit a document that gives proof of such change. This is without prejudice to making changes or presentation of documents and data to CDCP according to specific provisions of the Rules of Operation.

No authentication of signatures is required for documents issued by the Office of Government of the Slovak Republic, a ministry of the Slovak Republic, NBS, the State Treasury or ARDAL, provided that the document is signed by the prime minister, a minister, the governor of NBS, the director of the State Treasury, or the director of ARDAL; however, should they grant power of attorney or delegation, their signature must be authenticated.

Article 3

- 3.6 CDCP/member may assign multiple different entity types to a client (e.g. an authorized person may be account owner, participant, broker). The registered identification data of the client as the entity in the CDCP/member registry is linked to specific assigned entity registration number and not the entity type. The identification data of the client for each entity type registered under single entity registration number is equivalent.
- 3.7 The client asks CDCP/member for registration, change to or cancellation of the registration with the exception where CDCP performs the registration together with the request for service (e.g. signing a contract with issuer, application for opening of owner's account, and more) or CDCP performs the same with initiative in conformity with ZOCP or other regulation.
